Lt. Garrett Earns Sterile Management Credential

Lt. Melinda Garrett, Division Officer for Sterile Processing Dept.

Congratulations to Lt. Melinda Garrett who recently earned her Sterile Processing and Management Certification. "She trained and took the exam on her own," said Cmdr. Susan Antle, NHTP Director of Surgical Services. "As Division Officer for the Sterile Processing Department, this is very beneficial for the hospital."

"Managing the Sterile Processing Department involves sterilizing, organizing and having ready clean instrumentation for surgeons and medical personnel in the operating rooms," said Lt. Garrett. "Management also involves developing a department budget and managing staff." Lt. Garrett said she studied for about four months and then took the certification exam administered by the Certified Board for Sterile Processing and Distribution, earning a five-year certification.

Family Readiness Group Seeks New Members, Expands Services

Ms. Stefanie Williams is NHTP's new Family Readiness Group president. She's the wife of Lt. Thomas Williams, a registered nurse in the NHTP Emergency Dept. They've been in the command for two years. Ms. Williams takes over as FRG president from Leigh-Ann Sullivan who, PCSed with her husband, Capt. Michael Sullivan, this past summer.

The new FRG president is off to a running start with a concept for Deployment Coffees that will ease uncertainty among family members and tailor care packages to the individual needs of the deployed Sailor. "The idea is to introduce the Sailors who are about to deploy to the Sailors who have recently returned from deployment," Ms. Williams explained. "They can compare helpful tips; what those who were deployed found to be helpful, what could have been better. So that the deployed Sailor and his or her family can minimize uncertainty and have as smooth a deployment as possible."

The first Deployment Coffee will be held at NHTP Commanding Officer Capt. Lamberton's house on base, Nov. 19, at 9:30 a.m.

"We're looking for new members but we also want the community to know we're here as a resource," Ms. Williams said. "Last year we had a family with the husband deployed; the wife had stomach flu; and they have five children. The FRG did a meal train and we took turns baby sitting and cooking meals," Williams said.

Originally from Tucson, Ariz., Williams says being in the high desert feels like home. They live in Twentynine Palms, but Stefanie works in a gift shop in Joshua Tree. "I love Joshua Tree," she said. "There's this great, weird, eclectic mix of people. I love it."

She's aware not everyone feels quite as comfortable with their first introduction to the Mojave Desert. "We also recommend the best places to eat, best shopping, and other helpful hints newcomers might welcome," Williams said.

The FRG will continue its traditional role of providing warmth and friendship over the holidays.

"In the past we've done holiday meals at the barracks-- Thanksgiving and Christmas-- we'll continue to do that," she said. "We would like to do an Easter event this year. And we usually have a booth at hospital events, like the Family Fun Night, just to let people know we're here.

NHTP Celebrates the Hispanic Heritage of Its Sailors

"The big project last year was the flood house. Cmdr. Weiss's Joshua Tree home was severely damaged from flooding, and we helped with cleanup and repairs."

To raise money to fund its activities FRG members can frequently be seen selling baked goods outside the NHTP Chaplain's office.

When asked who she considers the best baker, Ms. Williams immediately responds, "Jennifer Flores and her kids. Jennifer's son and daughter, Ethan and Amber, are also in the FRG and are incredible bakers. I think Ethan does the baking and Amber does the decorating. Amber made a cake last year that sold for $100."

Ms. Williams notes that beyond furnishing services for Sailors and their families, the FRG provides a sense of community. "The closest friends I've made over the past two years are through the FRG," she notes.

The Family Readiness Group is open to all hands, enlisted, officers and their family members. More information is available from the group's Facebook page: FR+G29Palms (it's a closed group, but once found, simply request membership), or through email: FRG29P@yahoo.com.

Helping Older Loved Ones from Afar

Reprinted from National Institutes of Health (NIH) website:
<https://newsinhealth.nih.gov/>

Many of us find that we need to help care for aging parents or other loved ones who live far away. Caregiving can be difficult and time-consuming, but it can also be rewarding.

An online booklet from NIH, called So Far Away: Twenty Questions and Answers for Long-Distance Caregiving, is filled with ideas that can help make caring for a loved one from afar more manageable and less stressful.

Anyone, anywhere can be a long-distance caregiver. Caregiving might involve managing an elderly aunt's budget or helping your dad sort through medical bills. You might check the references of a home health aide, or try to take some pressure off a sibling who lives in the same town as your aging relatives.

So Far Away gives straightforward answers to 20 common questions faced by long-distance caregivers. Visit www.nia.nih.gov/HealthInformation/Publications/LongDistanceCaregiving to read or download the online publication.

Ms. Mary Ellen Hogan, NHTP Quality Management Dept. Head, presents a brown-bag lecture Oct. 21., Learn How to Develop an Effective Process Improvement Plan. Ms. Hogan is a certified black belt in Lean Six Sigma and presented in conjunction with the NHTP Professional Development Committee.

Submit Questions/Concerns and Tanya Will Provide Answers

Tanya Stuckey

Dear Tanya,

I'm new to military life and have never lived in a small town. I am from New York City where everything is at your fingertips. I have only been here for a few weeks and I am looking for a primary care doctor. My husband drove me by the Naval Hospital and said that is where I will go to see a doctor. Could you please explain to me how the smaller hospitals like the one here on base is able to provide the necessary services in one building?

Signed,
--Just Asking

Dear Asking,

Thank you for your question as I am sure there are others who are new to the area and are interested in knowing how our hospital handles the demands of various medical needs within our diverse population.

Twentynine Palms is certainly different from New York City and it is expected that upon arriving, especially if you are from a metropolis, to experience culture shock as you catch the first glimpse of our desert paradise. Don't let the small exterior fool you; there are big things waiting just beyond those doors! I am proud to say that I have the pleasure of working with a dynamic team that makes your health and well-being a priority. Our hospital consists of clinic areas that include an Immunization clinic, Family Medicine, Internal Medicine, OB/GYN, Optometry, Emergency Room (open 24/7), Physical Therapy Dept., Radiology, in-house Lab and Pharmacy. On the upper level, you will find our Maternal and Infant Nursing Dept., and the Orthopedics and Surgical Ward.

A mental health clinic is located just a short drive from the hospital near the dental clinic on base.

And that's not all! As needs grow, so have our services. We are currently installing a mammography unit and MRI service. Expanding access to care and maintaining community partnerships with larger facilities allow us to offer treatments once limited to the big city. If there are services you seek and would like to discuss, please join us at our quarterly Town Hall meetings where beneficiaries are encouraged to attend and participate in direct friendly exchanges with hospital leadership, and NHTP physicians and nurses.

Naval Hospital Twentynine Palms has a reputation for providing quality care, easy access to providers, referrals to civilian hospitals if there are services we can't offer, and a customer relations representative who is eager to answer questions and receive feedback, and ensure your needs are met.

A cake cutting and award ceremony celebrating NHTP's Culture of Safety took place outside the Chaplin's Office Sept. 30. "There are 680 people in California, namely at Branch Health Clinic Bridgeport, at Branch Health Clinic China Lake and at Twentynine Palms Naval Hospital that are living and breathing the culture of safety," NHTP Commanding Officer Capt. J.A. Lamberton remarked. "Care is not just defined as your medical knowledge, your technical skill, but it's also the care that comes from the heart. These individuals not only demonstrate technical expertise but also heartfelt caring for our patients."

L-R: Ms. Mary Ellen Hogan, Quality Management Dept. Head; Catherine Winsor, Patient Safety; and Joshua Daniels, Risk Manager, cut the Culture of Safety cake.

Introducing New Staff -- Welcome Aboard!

Lt. Cmdr. Lacy Gee

Lt. Cmdr. Lacy Gee arrived from Naval Hospital Bremerton where she was the Division Officer for the OR and is now staff nurse in the NHTP OR. She's been a Navy nurse for 13 years and loves it.

"Every few years you get to move, meet new people and do different things," she said. She's here with her husband, Martin, who has a career in culinary arts, and their two girls Hailey, 11, and Miranda, nine. She earned her nursing degree from Missouri Western State College and in December will have completed her Master's of Science in Nursing and Health Systems Management from Johns Hopkins University. "I really like our house," Lt. Cmdr. Gee says of the home they found in Twentynine Palms. "You can see the mountains; it's quiet; it's beautiful," she said. For hobbies, the Gees enjoy camping.

Lt. Cmdr. Monica Delano

Lt. Cmdr. Monica Delano has been in the Navy 21 years. She is our new Labor and Delivery nurse. Hometown is Houston, Texas. She arrived from Naval Medical Center Portsmouth, where she was Program Manager for Graduate Nurses. Lt. Cmdr. Delano earned her Bachelor of Science Nursing degree from Houston Baptist University and earned her Master's in Management, with a concentration in Healthcare Management, from Troy University. She is here unaccompanied but expects her 20-year-old son, Xavier, to be joining her and attending college locally. Among her many Naval assignments, Lt. Cmdr. Delano counts Sasebo, Japan, as most memorable. It's the quality of leadership that makes that assignment stand out, she says. Lt. Cmdr. Delano enjoys bowling, fishing reading and shopping. She's found a home in Twentynine Palms.

HMI Jennefer English

HMI Jennefer English arrived from Port Hueneme, Calif., where she was a CBR (Chemical, Biological, Radiological) instructor. She's been in the Navy 16 years. Hometown is Anaheim, Calif. She lists Port Hueneme as her favorite assignment in her 16 years in the Navy. HMI English has a cosmetology license which took a year and a half of full-time study which she completed during her last assignment. She says word of mouth keeps her busy. "I like outdoor stuff," she says in reference to hobbies. "I like to run and exercise and also crochet." She has three dogs, a cat and a 100-pound tortoise (not the protected local desert tortoise). HMI English found a home in Yucca Valley. "I love it," she says. She's earned the Surface Warfare and Fleet Marine Force badges and recently completed an audiologic technician course.

HMI Joseph Clint Canonigo

HMI Joseph Canonigo arrived from Surface Warfare Medical Institute San Diego. Before that he spent almost four years with Naval Special Warfare Group 2 in Virginia Beach, Va., in the Medical Home Port and supporting Navy Seal teams. This was one of his favorite assignments in his 12 years in the Navy. He enjoyed the deployments which took him "all over Africa, Europe and Afghanistan." Hometown is Los Angeles. HMI Canonigo's daughter, Noel Charlotte, 10 months, lives in Redlands with his intended. He graduated high school in Cebu City, Philippines. In Sigonella he was LPO for the Human Resources Dept. Hobbies include working out and video games. His advice to Navy recruits: "Start school. There are a lot of opportunities for HNs. By seizing the opportunities, you will be able to achieve your goals."

HMI Blair Book

HMI Blair Book has been in the Navy 17 years. He arrived from Naval Base San Diego where he was in a Independent Duty Corpsman. Born in Washington, D.C. and raised in Gaithersburg, Md., he joined the Navy after graduating from West Virginia University (liberal arts degree) for the structure and discipline. His first assignment was at Cherry Point where he was an airspace medical technician for two years. Following that assignment, HMI Book was assigned to search and rescue units for the following 14 years. He counts his first assignment, search and rescue at Cherry Point, as his best. "I learned a lot and got to do a lot of fun stuff," he said. Helicopter medivacs in Iraq were intense, he noted. He's found a house in Yucca Valley and enjoys riding his Harley Davidson Streetglide. Hobbies include playing live music, particularly the bass guitar.
