

DEFINITIONS:

Tobacco products - According to the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), the term 'tobacco product' means "any product made or derived from tobacco that is intended for human consumption, including any component, part, or accessory of a tobacco product (except for raw materials other than tobacco used in manufacturing a component, part, or accessory of a tobacco product)".

Second hand smoke - According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) "Secondhand smoke, which is also called environmental tobacco smoke or ETS, is a mixture of side-stream smoke and mainstream smoke. Side-stream smoke is the smoke released from the burning end of a cigarette, pipe, cigar, bidi, or kretek or that seeps from the mouthpiece of one of these products. Mainstream smoke is the smoke that is exhaled by the smoker". Second hand smoke has been classified as a group A carcinogen.

Tobacco residue - Tobacco residue is the particulate matter that results from the combustion of any tobacco product. This is also known as third hand smoke. This residue lingers in the air and collects on walls, clothing, etc where people may then come into contact with it and be contaminated. Tobacco residue also includes the liquid resulting from smokeless tobacco use. This liquid is considered a biohazardous waste product.

Nicotine delivery device - A nicotine delivery device is any device that delivers a dose of nicotine either with or without combustion. This includes all forms of smoke and smokeless tobacco as well as mechanical devices such as electronic cigarettes and medical devices such as nicotine replacement therapy.

Electronic cigarette - Electronic cigarettes (e-cigarettes) are a nicotine delivery device that allows the consumer to inhale electronically vaporized nicotine water. These e-cigarettes are not FDA approved and their sales in the United States are subject to enforcement of FDA controls.

Uniform - For the purpose of this instruction, uniform for active duty military is defined as anything worn while on duty. This includes but is not limited to uniform of the day, scrubs, PT gear, etc.

MTF governed property - MTF governed property is defined as any property or non-residential building that is owned, operated, maintained or leased by NHTP to include all roads, parking lots and sidewalks on NHTP, AMCC, China Lake and Bridgeport grounds. Residential buildings such as barracks and federally owned vehicles have their own set of instructions relating to second hand smoke issues and those instructions are not covered by this instruction.
