What is an Ombudsman?

Selected by the commanding officer (CO), your Navy family ombudsman is a spouse of a command member who voluntarily serves as the official liaison between the command and its families. The ombudsman is a vital resource to assist the command in discharging the CO’s responsibilities for the morale and welfare of the command’s families.

As a spouse, it is important to get acquainted with your local ombudsman. The command ombudsman can show you a direct route to getting the assistance you need to find solutions and resources.

SPOUSES OF DEPLOYED STAFF MEMBERS!

- Please share your stories of inspiration during your spouse’s deployment.
- Send an email of 250-300 words to either ombudsman’s address, to be shared in the monthly newsletter.
- Let’s remind each other that no one is ever alone!
As a husband and father to my children, I sometimes wonder what the greatest gift I will ever give them would be. A good life, love, inheritance and memories when I’m gone….all come to mind. But, when I deployed for 13 months back in 2007, I realized that none of those things were really the greatest gift I would ever give those I love. That greatest gift I will ever give them is really just one simple thing….freedom…and my part in helping to ensure the world in which they live is safe and that they can live their lives as they see fit.

There are many members of our team who are deployed today, doing their part as well. Every day I think of them, and their families, remembering the sacrifices they endure in doing their part. Few in our country will ever wear this uniform. But, for those who do…and for the families who sacrifice to support them, they will always know that this gift of freedom we pass on to those we love….is from them and because of them. For the rest of their lives, they will know that, when our country needed them, they answered the call and, because of them, we…and those we love, are free. Unlike other gifts, this gift of freedom can’t be bought or ordered in the mail. It can only be protected….and given…by those who serve…and by their sacrifice….to those they love.

Service in our Navy is never easy and the sacrifices are many, especially for our families. If your experience is like ours when I was deployed, that’s when the car will break down, the hot water heater will die, someone will get sick….the list goes on….and all on top of the daily chores of running a house, getting kids to school, perhaps working a job….all the normal activities of life….and all while knowing your loved one is serving overseas, likely in harm’s way. I know it’s hard and, for that, you have my deepest admiration and thanks. I also know that we are all a family, the NMCSD family. We are here together….ready, able, and more than willing to help those of our family who need us. You are part of that family. If you need help, all you need do is ask…and we will be there. Our command ombudsmen are available to you at any time….and have direct access to me, if needed, to help you. I don’t know how to fix a car, but I do know people here at the command who do….and can help. As a member of our family, we are here to help you, if needed, as just one way to say “we care about you” and “thank you.”

My prayers are for each of you, for those you love in harm’s way, and….for something that has eluded us for far too long……peace. May each of you, and those you love, be richly blessed with all good things life has to offer as you look forward to that day when your loved one comes home again, as I do.

MILITARY SPOUSE JOB SEARCH

What is MSEP?

While military spouses are well educated and highly qualified for a range of careers, they face a 26 percent unemployment rate and a 25 percent wage gap compared to their civilian counterparts. 77% of these spouses want or need work; yet frequent relocation is often a barrier to finding and maintaining a rewarding career. The inability of spouses to obtain and retain fulfilling employment as they relocate with the military compromises the quality of life of military families and the readiness of the military force.

MSEP, a targeted recruitment and employment solution, creates employment connections that provide companies with direct access to military spouses seeking career opportunities and spouses with direct access to employers who are actively recruiting.

Are you looking for a career?

- MSEP has information on portable careers.
- Fine tune your resume with a resume builder.
- Direct conversation with a consultant through Military OneSource at 1-800-342-9647.
- Career education for spouses for E-1 to E-5 & 0-1 to 0-2 through MyCAA.
