Some birth control methods, like the hormonal implant, are much more reliable than others.

Learn more about your birth control options >

The hormonal implant does not protect against sexually transmitted infections. Use condoms with the implant if you are concerned about STIs.